Live Australian Frogs.
A calf, somewhat of a freak of nature, was born on T. G. Ware's farm at Little Akaara, Australia, recently. It has five legs, the extra one working in a socket in the breastbone. The calf is thriving, and is strong and healthy. Another freak, a lamb, is reported to have been born at Plat Point Station. It has three ears and eight legs. It did not live.

TENDERED BANQUET BY THE OFFICERS CITY OF APPLETON

Mayor-Elect J. A. Fathens and Councilman-Elect R. M. Cummings Entertained Over Visit.

Mayor-Elect J. A. Fathens and Councilman-Elect R. M. Cummings returned late this afternoon from Appleton, where they had spent a day inspecting the methods of conducting the city business employed by the mayor and councilmen in that city. They were shown every courtesy by the Appleton city officials and are very enthusiastic over the warmth of their reception as well as over the workings of the new government in that city. Last evening they were given a banquet at the Sherman House. Nine covers were laid and among those present were Mayor Canavan, Councilmen Schneller and Goodland, the Chief of Police, City Attorney, and Clerk. In the afternoon they were given a long automobile ride over the streets of the city and shown its principal industries.

The division of work among the Mayor and Councilmen in Appleton, was found to be quite similar to that contemplated in this city. Mayor Canavan has charge of Fire, Water, Police, Health and Finance; Councilman Goodland of Streets and Bridges, Public Order, Licenses and Judiciary; Councilman Schneller of Street Lighting, Assessments, Ordinances, Public Works and Buildings, Scales of Weights and Measures.

The subordinate officers appointed by the Mayor and Councilmen are the City Clerk, Treasurer, Attorney, Engineer and Waterworks Clerk. There is no salaried Street Commissioner. The City Treasurer has only clerical functions, and bears the title merely because he is given signatorial powers. The City Clerk is the one who served under the former administration.

Mayor-Elect Fathens and Councilman-Elect Cummings took pains to sound the opinion of disinterested people on the success of the commission form of government and the new administration and heard it warmly commended on all sides. All three newspapers were enthusiastic supporters of the new regime.

Both the visitors from Janesville were impressed with the large amount of excellent pavement which had been laid at Appleton, much greater in proportion than in Janesville. The demand seemed to be for first-class permanent work, and there was little complaint on the score of expense. Many blocks of asphalt had been put down. There was a continuous stretch from downtown to the cemetery gates. The asphalt was of a natural variety and cost the city on an average $1.50 cents a square yard.

The principal business streets were paved with brick laid on a concrete base. Several blocks of concrete pavement had been put down. This was of two grades, No. 1 and No. 2. The No. 2 pavement was giving excellent satisfaction. One stretch had been laid in front of the city hall and after a year's use showed no signs of wear. This pavement consisted of a sub-base course of coarse concrete, overlaid with a top course of cement, sand, and fine crushed granite, cast with a corrugated surface. Expansion joints, laid both longitudinally and transverse, prevented cracking. A large number of macadam streets were to be treated with oil this summer for laying dust.

The city of Appleton took charge of the waterworks on December 1, 1911. The plant was in a very dilapidated condition and the city will soon issue bonds to raise money for repairs and extensions. The office of the water department is in the city hall and one clerk takes care of the necessary bookkeeping and accounts. The water filtration system is an acknowledged failure and will soon have to be replaced. The water is taken directly from the Fox river.

The fire department of the city was reported to be in excellent condition. It owns three stations and employs twenty paid men. The council is seriously considering the purchase of self-propelled apparatus.

Lighting in the city is under contract, the prices for services being very nearly the same as in Janesville. In the downtown streets ornamental lighting by arches is used and paid for by the merchants.

The sewers at Appleton empty into the river at several points at present, one outlet being but a quarter of a mile above the water intake, but it is planned to change the system so that all the sewage will be discharged from two large mains.

Conditions in Appleton previous to the adoption of the commission form of government were very similar to those in Janesville. The city officers were much alike and had been succeeded by the adoption of the same provisions of the general charter law. The system of keeping accounts was much the same.

The relations of the mayor and councilmen with the fire and police commissions, the school board, and the library board had been very harmonious, though complaint was made of the high school expense, the annual appropriations for the high school amounting to $31,500.

The new city officers of Janesville had a conference with the water commissioner at Fond du Lac before their return, and Mr. Cummings also spent a few hours at Menasha where he once lived.

MANHATTAN STOCK CO. CONTINUES TO PLEASE.

"Miss Robinson Crusoe," Last Night's Play, Was Acceptably Presented.
Manhattan Stock Co. appeared before a fair sized audience last night in the play, "Miss Robinson Crusoe." The company is making quite a hit, with the Janesville theatregoers. The leading parts were taken by Miss Helen Russell, as Crusoe and Mr. Randolph Gray was seen to advantage as the Grand Duke. Mr. Edward Tront, played the part of the Young Lieutenant and was very clever in it.

WISCONSIN DIVISION TO RECEIVE BANNER

Meeting at Which Banner for Safety Will Be Presented May Be Attended by Local Employers.

T. J. Lawson, head of the local safety committee, received yesterday a letter from Sup't. G. W. Bailey which read as follows:

To all Trainmen, Enginemen and other employees:
As you no doubt know the Wisconsin Division won the record for safety for the year ending December 31, 1911. The General Safety Committee have a banner that is presented to the Division Committee having the best record for safety during the year. There will be a meeting at 10:00 a. m., on Monday, April 15th, at hall No. 400 on the fourth floor of the K. of P. building, 180 West Washington street, near 5th Ave., Chicago at which time the banner will be presented to the employees of this Division. The entire Central Safety Committee will be present at this meeting and we also expect the President or Vice-President the General Manager, and other general officials. It is our earnest desire that such and every employee who can possibly be there and at this meeting to receive the banner as it is considered an honor to every employee on this division to have the distinction of having the best record for safety on the system.

G. W. DAILEY, Sup't.
It is not known whether any of the local employees will go down for certain yet, but it is thought that several will plan to be present at the meeting.

SAFETY REPORT FOR MARCH IMPROVEMENT

Marked Decrease in Number of Killed and Injured Among Employees of Northwestern Road.

The effort of spring and the disappearance of the ice has had its effect on the accident reports and the one for March last shows a decrease over that of the same month last year of fifty hurt and three killed, among the railroad employees. Train service as usual holds the largest number, three having been killed and 119 injured during the month. Switching service is next with one killed and 46 injured. The car repair department next, 1 killed and 23 injured, the man who was killed having violated the rules. Seventy-two were injured in the shops and roundhouses, 38 in station service, 33 trackmen, 15 bridgemen and 22 other employees, making a grand total of 5 killed and 377 injured on the entire system for one month. This compares very favorably with the report of the same month of 1911, during which time 8 men were killed and 427 injured. The largest source of injury was men left in such a way that the employees ran them into their feet, thirteen being injured in this manner. Defective tools and machinery were the cause of the next largest number of injuries, there being twelve of these.

The report also shows that although the employees injured are less numerous, the total number of deaths, including passengers and outsiders, is equal to last year's, eighteen, and the injuries are even more numbering 511 this year to 440 last year. Thirty-eight passengers were injured last year during March, but one killed and thirty-five injured this last month. Where ten outsiders were killed and forty-six injured last year, there are 12 killed this year and 36 injured.

In the matter of injured employees the Galena division had the most, a total of 57 being recorded. The Wisconsin division came next in the number of injured with 50, but two men were killed in this month. The grand total of the Wisconsin division, including non-employees as well, for 1911 was killed and sixty injured against 6 killed and 65 injured this year during March. This is an increase of about thirty-three per cent.

CHANCE OF ENGINES MADE ON THREE RUNS

Beginning on April 15th the Class 12 engines that have been running on runs 151 and 210, will be changed to runs 119 and 216 and the Train No. 151 will be put into the passenger loop. Engineer Mahoney will be assigned to runs 119 and 120.

The solid rail has been removed from the drawbridge over the Mississippi river at Winona owing to the resumption of traffic on the river following the break up of the ice, and the draw will be open to navigation after this. All trains must stop at this place from now on until next winter.

Engine 337 will be sent out of the shops tomorrow after a general overhauling. It is expected that she will be put on the south-end way freight.

There was a second six to Chicago this morning.

Almost all of the enginemen have settled down now and no one has been bumped for several days.

It was discovered that the man the police thought was trying to blow up the dam last night was only Phippen Haddock, who was enjoying a few hours' fishing. He showed the officer the eight-inch perch he caught to prove his peaceful intentions.

Baseball is having a little at South Janesville, but after the first game is scheduled it will probably start in regular training under the direction of R. K. Smith manager.

Just as train No. 501 was passing the yards yesterday on its way into the city from Chicago and Elroy, it blew out a cylinder head and stopped. It had to be towed up to the depot and was dished-headed out again from there.

Jack Lee has been laying off for three days and his place as dispatcher is being filled by William Conn.

It is reported that a large number of tickets have already been sold and the solo will be increased today for what promises to be one of the best entertainments which has been given in the Baptist church in some time, which will be produced by the young ladies of Mrs. Bailey's Sunday school class at eight o'clock tonight in the church parlors. The class has been working on the play, "An Old Maid's Convention," for several weeks and if hard work and strenuous training have any part in such a performance the affair will in all probability be most delightful. Miss Bettie Stevens of Deloit has had charge of the practices and the class has made excellent progress under her instructions.

DIEHLS' Wall Papers

Give Your Home A Cheerful Tone

Few people realize that wall paper will change the whole aspect of a room. Soft tone—airy—effects will make a small room seem larger, and the big, bare looking apartment may be reduced to cozy dimensions by the use of wall paper of confining perspective. You can give your home a cheerful tone—you can lend it warmth and grace—by the color on your walls. You can introduce a refined atmosphere into it by an exquisite blending of shades. The paper on your wall is the most important influence in the house. It is a mistake to neglect it, to allow it to look dingy. Why should it be commonplace when exquisite designs and colorings may be had just as cheaply—with careful selection? Our spring assortments will be a revelation to you of what beautiful effects may be had in wall paper—for very little expense. Let our salesmen work out your color problems. They are well equipped for so doing, and the service costs you nothing.

THE DANDELION.
With the advent of spring the average Janesville property-owner is most anxious about his lawn and the first crop of the season, the dandelions. Some way or other the dandelion crop in Janesville is always a success even if other garden blossoms do not flourish. The first good crop of the season always means a luxuriant second crop, a better third one and so on until frost comes.

Suburban life gives the following method of ridding the lawns of this crop:
"There are two ways of opening the campaign against the dandelions this spring. One is to cut them out by hand, and the other and more modern method is to spray the weeds with copperas, an iron sulphate.

"If you cut the plants out by hand, it is necessary to cut well below the crown with a long, sharp knife. It is claimed by weed experts that the weeds do not propagate from the roots as much as from the crown.
"To use the iron sulphate, or copperas dissolve one and one-fourth pounds of salt in a gallon of water, and apply to the lawn with a spray pump. Cover the lawn thoroughly. There will be no injury to the grass. In a couple of weeks apply the spray again, and repeat the operation in a fortnight after that.

"The grass appears black after treatment, but after being sprayed once, assumes a really richer shade of green than formerly.

TAMING THE SHREW.
One of the writers of the world whose works will never die as long as the English language is spoken, is Shakespeare. In securing the booking of the Southern-Marlowe company for Wednesday night of next week in "The Taming of the Shrew," Manager Myers of the local theatre has offered Janesville residents a rare opportunity of witnessing one of the most finished productions of one of the great masterpieces of the famous playwright. It is to be hoped that all will take advantage of the opportunity and that the two noted players, Mr. Southern and Miss Marlowe, will be greeted by a banner house. It speaks well for Janesville that such a company will stop here to give a performance and it should be appreciated.

THAT INCOME TAX.
Governor McGovern has called a special session of the state legislature to meet and pass certain legislation. Like all the reform legislatures the program of what the members shall do and what they shall not do, is all out and dried. Like the famous 1904 state republican convention, the parts are all written and nothing but the lines laid down in the "playette" will be permitted. Meanwhile the taxpayers of the state, the big interests, are fretting and fuming over the income tax law and demanding that it be either struck off the statute books entirely or at least amended to suit conditions. Dispatches from Madison state that the law will not be considered even, if present plans carry.

Janesville is much interested in this law and its business interests are most anxious to have it repealed. One concern located here has already signified its determination of leaving the state and others may follow. Now comes the following announcement relative to Ringling Bros. circus:
"Owing to the income tax passed by the last legislature the Ringling Bros. have decided to leave Marabou and the state.

"They are now packing their household effects, together with circus outfit, and will remove to Bridgeport, Conn. Work has also been suspended on the new opera house which Al Ringling started to build in this city.

"The Ringlings have made their winter quarters here ever since they started in the show business."
When even circuses are going to desert their native state it is time to do something. Time for some action to be taken even if it is not on the reform platform.

With an auditorium suitable for holding big conventions, exhibits and other gatherings, a Park Association, with plenty of grounds for all sorts of out-of-door sports and exhibits, Janesville is in a position to step to the front and demand recognition in securing anything that is coming this way.

Mexico is trusting to luck that Uncle Sam will not step in and give its naughty insurgents a good spanking if they do not behave themselves. Everything points to the necessity of a good swift kick due somebody just where it will have the most effect.

The baseball season opened yesterday and if the interest displayed in watching the ball game in Janesville is any criterion of the sentiment throughout the country the sport will not die for some years to come.

The release from the long confinement of the winter months has caused lots of the younger generation to fairly revel in the out-of-door life. Now if the city had a play ground for them how fine it would be.

Next Tuesday the new mayor and commissioners take office. It is a move in the right direction and the success of the change is assured before the men elected a week ago really take office.

Woman's suffrage is interesting Janesville women just at present and before the time comes to vote next fall it is safe to say that the local organization will have done a lot of "covering."

Michigan had a lively time yesterday when two state conventions were held and Taft and Roosevelt delegates elected from both to go to Chicago and fight it out.

Champ Clark has discovered he has friends in Wisconsin even if the state central committee was opposed to him.

If all the wasted energy of the Rock river could be stored for future use what a power could be developed even at a low water period.

It would appear that the dress suit case and dress suit was not all that Governor Wilson lost in Illinois.

PRESS COMMENT.
How it Comes
Madison State Journal: "The time is rapidly approaching when the wealthy will face much violence on the streets. This situation will be due to the fast approaching day when working people will be deprived of means of subsistence. Every day the position of the working man is becoming worse."

"This is the utterance of an anarchist." No this is simply the reported words of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the man who has tried hard for many years to save the millions of Americans from the incorporated food-polluters of the nation.

"I thoroughly agree with Judge E. H. Gary," said Dr. Wiley, "that unless something is done to alleviate the present condition of unrest in the nation, mob rule is bound to come. The sentiment of abhorrence comes from over-capitalizing great industries, the selling of watered stock, the promotion of worthless land schemes, the extortions of express, telephone and telegraph systems and dozens of other schemes for deceiving and defrauding the people."

Some Encouragement.
Milwaukee Wisconsin: The equal suffrage movement in Chicago, depending upon men for its votes, was defeated last week; but the question was a new one to the mass of the Illinois electorate, and there had been only a month in which to present it. Moreover there were other issues before the people, much more exciting to many of them, which tended to keep votes for women in the background. On the whole, therefore the wonder is not that equal suffrage failed to carry, but that under the circumstances it gained as heavy an endorsement as it did. The friends of the movement will feel that there is much encouragement for further efforts.

Lillian's Reason.
Oshkosh Northwestern: Lillian Russell declares there is more real love in a handshake than in a kiss. Of course, however, some people will see in this merely another indication that Lillian is commencing to show her age.

Taking His Measure.
Appleton Post: The Colonel visited Lincoln's tomb at Springfield on Easter Sunday. From its proportions he doubtless estimated the magnitude of his own political superiority the people are preparing for him. If the "frazzle" is omitted from his vanquishment, a sarcophagus the size of a peanut shell should give

PUZZLE—FIND HIM
Now comes, with robing on the wing, The dainty blushing bride of spring. A beauteous thing in filmy lace With pride writ on her laughing face. The pretty bridesmaids all are there; A galaxy thus passing fair. The father's there upon display To give the blushing bride away. The minister is at his post. The one man who is needed most. The best man is there with the rest In his boiled shirt and low necked vest.

But there are so few have him in mind. He sort of gets lost in the crowd. His mortal spirit is so proud. He's showed 'round from place to place. A selling player in a race. And not a parson seems to care. A confidant if he's there. The humblest mortal in the room. You guess correctly—how's the groom.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY.
General Garibaldi is coming from Europe to take command of the Mexican federal army, but the federal army may be a revolutionary army before he arrives.

The Congressmen have been asked so often where they stand that most of them are sitting down. A New York man proposes a law to have all holidays fall on Monday. Sort of a blue law, sort of.

La Follette says he has taken no rest for twelve years. The public seems disposed to let him take one now. Bryan is raising onions. He is also quite a hand at raising something else.

"Colin" Harvey, the eminent free silverite, has mentioned W. J. Bryan for vice president. Mark's infamously to him makes countless thousands weep. Unfortunately for the Chinese prisoners who are being thrown out of their jobs they stand little chance of marrying American heiresses.

Ten pairs of trousers have been stolen from Rev. Dr. Aked. If that him as much spare room as the ancient Colosseum at Rome would give to one of Gulliver's Lilliputians.

Farwell, a sad and fond farewell. Old roller towel to thee, Health sharks are upon thy trail, The end is plain to see. They say thou art a rendezvous, For microbes, deadly grim, Until the chances of the man Who wipes on thee is slim.

How often have we killed thee round With mien and vicious twist And whirled again with force enough To dislocate our wrist. How often have we looked thee o'er To find a nice clean spot How often have we vainly cursed When we have found it not.

We've known thee now for many years, Thy soiled and unwashed face Has gazed upon us constantly In every public place. Take all thy microbes and depart. They're sounding thy death knell; This is the sanitary age, Old roller towel, farewell.

THINGS THAT MAKE LIFE WORTH LIVING.
Thinking that you planted radishes and having a crop of turnips come up instead. Getting darning letters that should go to a man who has a name similar to yours. Being called out of bed at 2 o'clock in the morning by somebody who wants to know if he is on the right street and if you can tell him where Mr. Smith lives.

Being jones in the cafe when the theater crowd is present. You can do this by having some friend call you on the phone at the psychological moment. Going to sleep in the barber chair and having the barber do $1.75 worth of work on you while you are unconscious.

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.
MONOMANIACS.
A woman died in Peru, Ind., the other day in a mean and ugly room and supposedly dependent upon charity. In an old leather bag was $17,000, which was discovered by wondering neighbors.

Miserable creature! Consider what the bag of gold might have brought the woman. She could have had pretty clothes and comfortable surroundings, plenty to eat, medical attendance in her sickness, perhaps a prolongation of life. She might have had the countless little delicacies and the attentions craved by the normal woman who can afford them.

But— She evidently preferred barren and comfortless surroundings, rags and bare subsistence. Why? That she might close the shutters of her windows and run her fingers through the gold pieces and gloat over their yellow faces.

Strange obsession? It certainly was. But when you come to think of it there are many ways by which one may sell himself for gold. There are business men who will deny themselves the common joys of friendship, the companionship of their families, the vacations they sorely need, not for the sake of a living, but merely in order to pile up money they do not need.

Like the woman, they are money mad. They are monomaniacs. Also there are women who care more for social pleasures than for the welfare of their children and others who will imperil their husbands' business because of their mania for dress or equipage.

Everywhere are those who sell their birthrights for a mess of pottage. Why? Because of a misconception of the value of things. Emphasis is laid upon things that are not worth while, things that cannot permanently satisfy, things that do not abide.

He only is sane who is content with the simple, everyday things of a well balanced life and who strives toward the attainment of that which is best and noblest.

WHEN YOU PAINT
you want FACTS and FIGURES. Remember, the question is: Not only HOW MUCH, but HOW FAR. The measure of paint value is not the price per gallon, but its covering capacity. HIGH STANDARD LIQUID PAINT is cheaper than other paints because it COVERS MORE (One gallon covers 400 ft., two coats—under favorable conditions, even more than this). IT WORKS MORE EASILY, IT LASTS LONGER, IT WEARS BETTER, and therefore IT IS MORE ECONOMICAL.

Tempting Wash Stuffs:

They're so full of loveliness that when we begin to talk about them it makes us feel a good deal like the school girl who in a burst of enthusiasm tries to tell of all the pretty things she has seen in one breath. The designs are so neat, the colorings so dainty and the fine threads are interwoven in such a myriad of fanciful ways that one can hardly help believing they are full of real life. To most of you it will seem as if someone must have said: "I'm going over the whole world in search of the prettiest textiles, and from these I will select the most beautiful and give them to The Big Store. This is what has virtually been done. From importers foreign and American weavers, who vie with one another for supremacy, we have selected a little of this and a little of that, thereby procuring the best in each assortment. And, mark you, we had an eye on the cost side; This will be plainly apparent when the beauty and fineness of these fabrics are compared with the prices. We feel quite sure you will admire them as much as we do, and we want you to see them, whether you buy or not.

Good Business Policy

It is not a matter of cutting prices that makes my charges less than at other dentists. It is a matter of good business policy. I figure first to give my patients the very best service that it is possible to give, and have equipped my office with every convenience and appliance to do the very best work and to do it without loss of time. In this way I can accomplish more work and better than it is possible without modern equipment, and I positively do away with about 90% of the pain.

Inspired Famous Hymn.

"Jesus, Lover of My Soul," is a hymn around which many traditions and sacred associations cling. The story connected with its origin may be legendary, but it is no less beautiful. Its author, Charles Wesley, was sitting at his desk by an open window when a bird pursued by a hawk flew in. The bird was saved, for the hawk feared to follow it. The incident inspired Wesley to write his famous hymn.

Cow Wrought Much Mischievous.

A series of accidents all on account of a cow occurred one day not long ago at Neerim, South Victoria. A man who was driving a pig was upset by running over a cow. The pony then bolted with the upturned pig, which frightened a team of horses attached to a wagon, and the latter capsize over a log, plunging underneath it the driver, who sustained a fracture of the skull.

Child's Timidity Averted Tragedy.

A Tallangatta (Victoria) woman, after undressing her child in the kitchen one evening recently, told the little girl to run upstairs to bed, relates an Australian exchange. The child whimpered and asked not to be sent upstairs without a light. The mother after scolding the child for her foolish timidity, got a light and accompanied her upstairs, when she was horrified to find a large black snake curled up on the pillow.

Telling the Banana.

A banana is a hard thing for the greenhorn to buy right. One way to tell is by the tip end. If it is sweet the tip is small and comes to a sharp point. If there is an abundance of thick, tough skin, full of leathery fiber, something is wrong with the banana; maybe it has too much plantain in it. Avoid the banana with the tip all spread out with too much knobby skin at the end.—New York Press.

Age of Organization.
New Boarders—Well! This is the first place I've struck where they have preserved strawberries and peach jam instead of stewed prunes.

Old Boarders—All owing to organization, my boy. We boarders have a mutual protective association, with iron-clad rules and heavy penalties.

"O, ho! You kicked against prunes, did you?"

"Not much we didn't. We passed a law that whenever prunes came on the table every member should eat a quart or pay a $10 fine. That settled it. The landlady found prunes too expensive."—New York Weekly.

Made Nest Escape.
Not so long ago a knowledge of Latin was essential to an orator, and long quotations from the Roman poets embellished every debate. James Payn, the novelist, was once at a dinner party where a learned clergyman insisted on quoting Greek. The lady sitting next to Payn asked for a translation. Payn's Greek was rusty. Accordingly he assumed a blush, and hinted to the lady that it was scarcely fit for her ear. "Good heavens!" she exclaimed, "you don't mean to say—"

"Please don't ask any more," murmured Payn. "I really could not tell you."

The Coads' Best Held.
Dr. Miner Lee Bates, the president of Hiram college, was talking at a tea in Hiram, O., about coeducation. I refer to marriage."

Unable to Count Beyond Four.
A close observer has definitely established the fact that magpies and robbers cannot count further than four. A rook never returns to its nest until it is quite satisfied that there is no danger near. When four hunters or less departed in succession from a nearby log cabin, the rook would return to its nest, after the last had gone out of sight. But whenever there were more the bird lost count and returned to its nest even while some were still in the hut.

The Growler.
Redd—Saw you out with your wife's dog yesterday. Green—How did you know it was my wife's dog? Redd—By the growling. Green—But the dog didn't growl. Redd—No; but you did. —Youkers Statesman.

A New Railroad Line

was built through the DAUPHIN LAKE REGION last year. A branch of the Canadian Northern.

Why Was the Branch Laid Here?

Lines of road are not built unless the country shows evidence of being able to develop into a shipping district.

But the men in charge of this work, investigated the region; they tested the soil; they tried the climate; they took into consideration all the elements that might make the country non-crop producing and their result can be seen from the fact that they BUILT THE ROAD.

We Are Handling Land in

and to show our faith in the country we will sell 160 acres to anyone able to farm a quarter section, on crop payments. You supply the power, we the land, and we will divide the profits.

We will be glad to furnish literature and information to anyone interested.

As to the "Dogdays."
The "dogdays" are so called because the Greeks on first beholding the star Sirius with the naked eye were wont to sacrifice a black dog to appease his wrath, the general belief being that Sirius was the cause of the hot, sultry weather usually attendant upon its appearance, and that on the first morning of its rising the sea boiled, wine turned sour, dogs grew mad and men became afflicted with all manner of burning fevers, hysterics and fringes. At Argos a festival was held during the dogdays known as "Cynophantia," which means that dogs were killed on sight.

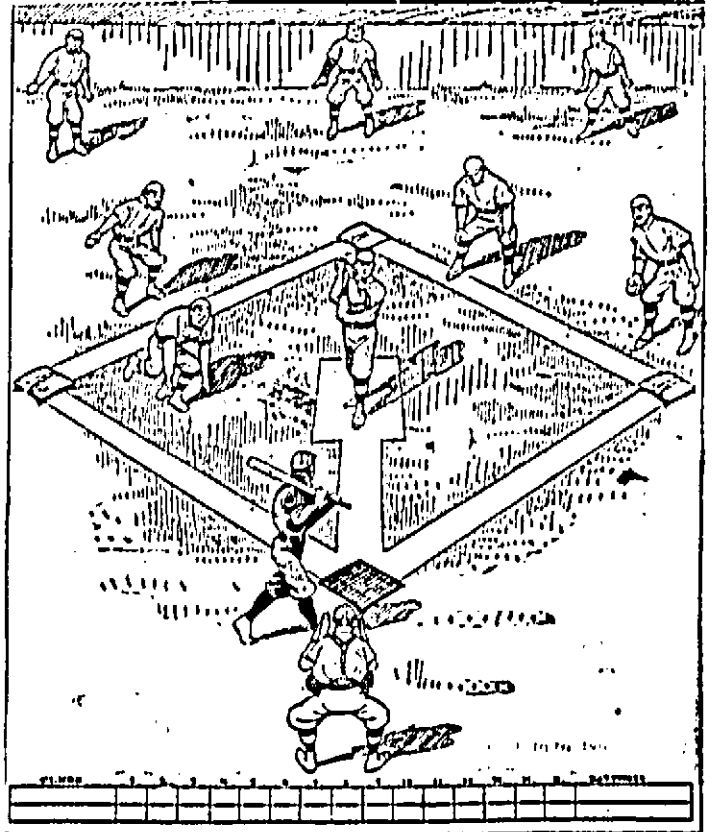

Unwise Comment.
How much wiser would a man appear if he reserved his comments. The other day a woman said, "I hear that Valencienno lace is going to be the wear—again." "Is it?" growled her husband. "I'll bet you an old well, then, it's something that doesn't cost a cent under 37 cents a yard." And his wife, seeing that he had a clench, was silent, and would not stay in and call him.

A Jewel.
Rays play of the characters in a current play, speaking of his wife whom he wants to divorce: "She sees that my meals are properly cooked, she runs my house, she takes care that the buttons are on my clothes, but does that make her a wife?" Nope, it doesn't make her a wife. It makes her a jewel of purest ray serene.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Blaze of Glory

Our Exposition of Wash Goods is a Great Educator

A veritable spring garden spot:—so faithfully are nature's birds and blossoms reproduced in the dainty wash stuffs that it is almost necessary to look twice to dispel the illusion.

This event demonstrates the extraordinary buying facilities we possess among the leading manufacturers. The great crowds which attended yesterday were both positive and eloquent in their approval of the striking display and the many helpful fashion suggestions.

Every Department of The Big Store is filled almost to overflowing with the best merchandise from the best lines in the world. The big manufacturers, the best manufacturers are all anxious to take advantage of The Big Store's output, and many of the better ones confine their lines to us alone.

Australia's Tallest Tree.

The tallest tree in Australia is probably one of the eucalyptus myrsinites regina species, which was found some time ago on a spur of Mount Haw Haw, in Gippsland.

Victorian experts now have ascertained the height of the tree to be 328 feet 1 inch. Its girth at 6 feet from the ground is 25 feet 7 inches. A tree of the same species discovered at Neerim, also in Gippsland, while only 227 feet high, has a girth of 55 feet 7 inches at 6 feet from the ground.

Surest Thing.

"I think a man with a past is the most interesting, don't you, May?" "Maybe. But a young fellow with a future is more comfortable."

WORK DONE BY CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Creation of New Commissions and Departments and Growth of University Cause for Increased Work.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 12.—Compared with other commissions, the volume of business done by the Wisconsin civil service commission, in proportion to number of employees and appropriation, is large. The commission has gathered data and compiled a statement showing the extent of its activities and accomplishments. Since the law went into effect in January, 1906, there has been a steady increase in the number of departments and officers and employees. At present, 1,927 officers and employees in 1905, there are now 3,252. The total increase is largely due to the growth of the university, which in 1906 had 552 professors, instructors and employees, and in 1912 had 1,254; and to the creation of the following new departments:

Board of Immigration, tuberculosis sanatorium, department of state fire marshal, state highway commission, state board of public affairs, revivor of statutes, teachers' pension board, joint department created by the railroad and tax commissions.

Among other departments existing in 1906, the most notable increase in number of employees is that of the railroad commission.

The figures show that of 645 officers and employees now in the service of designated capital departments, 327, or more than fifty per cent, have been in the service less than two years, and only 154, or about twenty-five per cent, were in the service when the civil service law went into effect.

Changes in penal and charitable institutions are very much more frequent. These figures explain in part why the volume of business of the commission is large.

The Milwaukee civil service commission examined 824 persons in 1910. The total number of persons on the Milwaukee payroll is 5,000. The state commission during the same year examined 2,062 persons, the state payroll during that year having not exceeded 2,800 persons.

The volume of business done by the Wisconsin commission in 1911 was greater than that done by the Illinois state commission, which has an appropriation more than twice as large ($31,800). The total number of departments, not including normal schools, in Illinois, is 89; in Wisconsin it is 47. The total number of officers and employees, not including normal schools, in Wisconsin, is 2,730, and their monthly salaries total $229,138.45. In Illinois the officers and employees number 4,489 and their salaries aggregate $316,160.59.

The legislature of 1911 placed new burdens upon the civil service commission in providing for income tax assessors in forty assessment districts and in further providing that assessors of weights and measures in thirty cities be selected competitively. The requirement of law that examinations shall be held simultaneously in the county seats of all counties of the state adds materially to the work of the commission.

FAVORS EXTENSION OF THE SCHOOL DAY

Prof. O'Shea of University Education. al Department Advocates Some Innovations.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 12.—Prof. M. V. O'Shea of the department of education, University of Wisconsin, believes that the school day could be extended to great advantage. He does not believe the book work in the schools should be increased, however. This, he says, would be "deadly."

Commenting on a recent speech of Prof. H. C. Buell of Janesville, at the Southern Wisconsin Teachers' convention here, who argued for lengthening the school day, Prof. O'Shea deplored the impression since gained that Prof. Buell meant the pupils should be kept sitting in the school room memorizing the contents of books for more hours each day than they do now.

"If the schools in this state should suddenly add two hours to the day's program," said Prof. O'Shea, "doing the same kind of work that is now done in most of them, the educational ship would go on the rocks in a short time. But if the schools could be equipped with facilities for varied and interesting manual activities and abundant physical exercise, and group games and plays, and dramatization of literature and history, and moving picture shows of an educational character, then we could to a very great advantage extend the school day in most communities. But heaven knows we do enough of book work now in the schools, and we must not add to this sort of daily program."

Small Boy as Conservationist.

A lecturer before a suburban woman's club raised his voice with emphatic confidence. "I venture to assert," he said, "that there isn't one in this audience who realizes the importance of the conserving of our forests, not one who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our forests." A small boy who had accompanied his mother to the lecture interrupted in a high, childish voice, "I once shot a woodpecker," he said.

White Africans.

That race in northern Africa known as the Herbers is white, and if they dressed like our own people and had the habits of Americans or Europeans they could easily pass for such. The Herbers are believed to be descendants of the white inhabitants of ancient Europe. They are Mohammedans. Blue eyes, fair hair and rosy cheeks are quite common among them, and many of the women are strikingly handsome.—Harper's Weekly.

There Are Others.

In our adolescent inexperience we cherished the notion that hotel clerks and book store attaches were the most conspicuous of the unintelligents. Yesterday, however, a telegraph operator objected to our using "juxtapose" in a night letter. "We don't allow code words," said he. And for the life of us we couldn't think of a snappy comeback.

There are now over 4,000 moving picture theaters in Great Britain and Ireland. Fully $5,000,000 is said to be invested in the provision and working of halls alone, and over 32,000 people are employed. This leaves out of account the development of auxiliary branches of the industry. A total of 2,000,000 people represents approximately the daily audience of these picture shows.

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA ROYD

The Pose for Your Picture.

WHEN you have your photograph taken you want it to look like you, don't you,—the real you?

How can this best be accomplished? Will it not be by being taken in your most natural position and dress?

How much of your time do you wear evening dress, or have your hair elaborately coiffed? Perhaps very occasionally. Yet this is the way most people array themselves to have their picture taken.

Naturally, they want to look their best. And their feet do look their best when they have on their very best clothes. But honestly, are you sending a friend your real self when you send a picture in which you are in a low-cut evening gown, with your hair all Grecian bandeaux? Aren't you sending an artificial you, a you that your friend seldom sees? Wouldn't there be more real satisfaction for your friend in having some simple unaffected picture of yourself as you are in your every-day life, something that was sincere and restful?

This point was rather well illustrated in a picture a certain young girl had taken. She is an unusually pretty girl of seventeen, and very popular in her young set. And when she told her friends she was having her picture taken, they were all crazy to have one. She went to one of the leading photographers in one of the country's largest cities, a woman by the way, and a woman who is noted the country over for her fine work. But much to the photographer's delight, and to her friends' amazement, this girl was photographed in a middie blouse and with a tennis racket. All her friends were looking for a beautiful picture of her in an evening dress, for she looks lovely in her girlish dance frocks. But she thought the matter over quite considerably before she went to the studio, and she decided she wanted a picture that was just herself. So she donned an ordinary middie blouse, took her tennis racket, and appeared at this fashionable photographer's, ready to be photographed.

And the result is a picture of a simple, unaffected, very beautiful girl, seated, with her racket on her lap, as if she had just finished a game, and looking right at you out of her photograph rather seriously, as if, though she played tennis and enjoyed life as a girl should, there were other things in her head besides fun. And the charm of it grows upon you every time you look at it. The real girl is in that picture, not a fussed-up representation of her. And you like to have the picture about you to gaze at and commune with, just as you would the girl herself.

So if you are going to have your picture taken, think out what dress, what attitude will most truly express you. For it is you, your friends want not clothes or hairdressing or millinery. Be yourself, your real self. And you will not only have a more satisfying picture, but a more artistic one.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

"THE world is too much with us; late and soon, getting and spending, we lay waste our powers."

—Wordsworth.

Because she found that the large rent was a burden which continually fretted and galled her, and absorbed a disproportionate amount of her attention, a woman recently gave up a pretty home in which she had lived for many years, and moved into less expensive quarters.

We were talking about the move afterwards, and she said, "It was such a pretty home, and we had fitted it up just to suit us, but after my sister married, the rent was really too much for me. I could have paid it, but it was always a strain and always on my mind. I was all the time afraid I wouldn't even enough, or would be sick, or get behind some way or other. One night I sat down and thought it all over, and I came to the conclusion that I wasn't getting enough out of life that way. All I've been doing for the last three years is struggling to make enough money to pay that rent. I haven't been living. I've just been earning and spending, earning and spending. Do you know, in spite of the fact that I miss my pleasant and convenient home, I've been infinitely happier since I left it? The strain is relieved. I can live now."

Don't you think that woman was an exceptionally wise person? I do.

"The world is full of people whose lives are just what this woman's was while she was trying to live beyond her means. 'Late and soon, getting and spending,' says Wordsworth, and describes the whole existence of—yes, I fear it—at least half the world.

We must earn and we must spend, but what a tragedy it is when life holds nothing for us besides these two processes. I know that there are millions of poor people so uneducated and so unfortunate that they must work from dawn till dark and still scarcely earn enough to keep themselves from starving. I can't think of the lives of these people without a passionate rebellion and a passionate longing for the time when the world will not tolerate such conditions and I truly believe that time will come. To these people life can hardly be any more than getting and spending. But these are but a small proportion of the people who get no more out of life. A far larger proportion is made up of folks who, like the woman I quoted, in spending more than they can rightly afford, deliberately chain themselves down to an unrelenting round of getting and spending.

No luxury is worth such imprisonment of the soul.

Nothing but absolute necessity can excuse such an existence.

And yet how many of us are deliberately ensnaring ourselves in this way! How many of us are leading an existence which, by our mania for material luxuries, we are making nothing but getting and spending! How many of us have any reason to say with Wordsworth, "The world is too much with us!"

Courage, my friends, while there's life there's hope. If you can only arouse your soul enough to make it suffer about this state of things you may alter this condition. You need not be a slave any longer than you wish to be.

Sit down and think it all out. Is your life any more than getting and spending? Do you wish it to be any more than that?

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING

By Alice E. Whitaker.

What Women and Cameras Have Done for Public Cleaning.

What was first intended as an amusement merely is sometimes converted later to serious purposes. The moving picture show first introduced as an amusement, and not always an innocent one, is now being made to give instruction in history and geography, while other possibilities are being discussed.

The camera is made to act many useful roles and not the least is that of helper to boards of health.

In a large number of cities and towns the custom is growing of having a "clean-up day" in the case of a good sized city a week is set aside to get rid of accumulations that are a menace to health and displeasing to the eye.

This work started with women's clubs and in one large city three years ago a single woman's club asked the public to pick up the clutter in streets and on a certain day. This year all the societies and clubs of both men and women and the public school children, aided by the board of health and the newspapers, have the present week set apart for a thorough cleaning every where outside the walls of the houses.

As the date was set several weeks ago there has been a great preliminary work done and in this the camera has taken an important part. It is not pleasant for a family to see the bur-

TALKS with our WOMEN READERS

by Edna K. Wooler

"There's something I'd like to have an answer to," said the woman who always wants to know.

"Why is it that you so often hear a widow repeat her husband's last words—embodying the sentiment that she has been a 'good and faithful wife' but you never hear a widower repeat any farewell words from his late spouse to the same effect? And why is it that though you so often hear almost any wife boasting that her husband praises her as a 'good and faithful wife,' you seldom hear of a husband boasting that his wife tells him that he is a 'good and faithful husband'?"

"I'd like to know the answer," said the woman who always wants to know. A certain small girl in this town has been hearing a great deal about economy, how to make a dollar go a long way, getting the most for your money, etc., etc., in connection with the high cost of living.

She has therefore become imbued with ideas of economy which, though commendable, have not yet been arranged in the right order.

"The other day the small girl's mother just as she was putting the finishing touches to the evening meal, discovered that the tea supply had run out.

"June," said she to her daughter, "if you would run over to the grocery and get me some tea. Here is 10 cents—that's all the change I have now. Get 10 cents worth of tea."

June listened forth and soon accented the grocer's clerk thusly:

"How much is your tea?"

"We have all the way from 40 cents a pound up," he replied.

"Do you give just as much for 40 cents as you do for 50 or 60 cents?" asked the small girl with the sense of economy.

"Yes, mikes," responded the grocer.

"The best tea, though, is the highest priced."

"Well, then," quickly quoth Miss June, "I'll take 10 cents worth of the worst."

THE PITIFUL PART.

"The most pitiful thing that comes within my experience," said a woman, whose profession brings her in contact with the feminine public, "is the

Booth Tarkington was talking about a novel of the "high brow" type—those half-starved novelists whose reviews are much more remarkable than their sales.

"As this novelist, shabby and cold," said Mr. Tarkington, "was walking in Fifth avenue one wintry afternoon there glided past the magnificent automobile of a publisher who had brought out one of the poor fellow's books at a heavy loss."

"The publisher signaled to his chauffeur, the automobile stopped and the novelist, in reply to a wave of the publisher's hand, presented himself at the window of the car humbly."

"The publisher, wrapped in furs, said: 'There's a great big manuscript nearly falling out of your hip pocket. If you weren't so well known—'

"Here the publisher removed the superb Havana cigar from his mouth and laughed a loud, scornful laugh."

"If you weren't so well known," he repeated, "I guess you'd have your pocket picked."

Miss Jane Addams was talking at a tea at Hull House in Chicago about woman suffrage.

"Woman deserves the vote," she said. "Woman is abandoning her brief role of parasite. She is returning to her ancient role of partner—partner in man's labor and thought, no less than in his pleasures."

Miss Addams smiled.

"In a word," she ended, "every man's wife should be a sister to him."

A gentleman seeing an advertisement in the paper, "A five-roomed house to let," went to have a look at it. It was just the size he wanted, but was sadly out of repair. He went to the agent's office and said he didn't want a six-roomed house.

"That isn't a six-roomed house," said the agent.

"Oh, yes, it is."

"But I say it is not." And the agent began counting: "There's the kitchen, the dining-room, reception-room, and two bedrooms—that's five, isn't it?"

"Yes, but there's the room for improvement," said the prospective tenant, "and that's bigger than any of the others."

Increasing number of women who are seeking to add to the family income by some work they can accomplish at home.

"There are so many women who are trying to earn a little money and still perform all duties to home and husband and children. They come to me for advice and help, and sometimes I am able to give them ideas or start them along some practical line.

"So many of them want to earn the extra money without letting their neighbors and friends know—they feel it a sort of disgrace. Some of them think they can get clerical work to do at home, or some kind of art work, or something perfectly indylike and which can be kept a secret from everybody outside of home.

"I have to discourage all such ideas. For one thing, there is no such thing as clerical work to be done at home. For another thing, it's publicly that well one's service. For still another thing, one should never be ashamed of honest work, whether it's trying doughnuts or painting holiday cards or doing other folk's laundry."

"I always tell those who come to me to think what they can do best. It's making babies' bibs, then go in and corner the bib market. Everybody will respect the woman who can and will make the baby bibs in town."

"When a woman feels that she must add to the family income she must put all false pride in her pocket.

"The pitiful part is that so many women feel that need now. And it is not always because the husband's earnings are insufficient under the present conditions.

"Expenses are high. Money is needed for everything. We are past the days of trading or exchanging services for goods. And the city wife has no chicken yard and a dairy from which she draws the proceeds—in that way the farmer's wife is a bit ahead of her."

"So the city wife must exercise her ingenuity and advertise herself in whatever she can do better than anybody else, or in filling wants that other people haven't the time or inclination to fill themselves."

Foolish Habit of Fretting.

It is a great misfortune to have a fretful disposition. It takes the fragrance out of one's life, and leaves only weeds where a cheerful disposition would cause flowers to bloom. The habit of fretting is one that grows rapidly unless it be sternly repressed; and the best way to overcome it is to try to look on the bright side of things.

CONDIMENTS AND NARCOTICS.

"Condiments create a desire for narcotics," says Dr. D. H. Kress in "Life and Health." "De-cause food is not allowed a sufficient time in contact with the nerves of taste located in the mouth to derive satisfaction from the delicate and natural flavor, pronounced artificial flavors are added, to produce an immediate effect upon the palate. This has led to the free use of salt and sugar, and to the use of peppers, mustard and other substances which irritate the stomach, all of which create and help to maintain the thirst for narcotics." I have explained both of these objections to condiments in general. The desire for unnatural foods and stimulants is inheritable and the tendency in all animals, including man, to indulge the inclination to various unnatural foods or drugs, is constant. In those animals that have been restricted by circumstances to few and simple foods we find the greatest degree of vigor, while those that have had the opportunity for much variation have deteriorated, and the cultivation of the desire for condiments destroys the natural taste, and tends to develop a desire for unnatural eating and drinking, which is inheritable and constantly tends to intensify itself, deteriorating the race.

TOO MUCH STARCH

A Food Problem.

An Asheville man tells how right food did that which medicine had failed to accomplish:

"For more than 15 years," he says, "I was afflicted with stomach trouble and intestinal indigestion, gas forming in stomach and bowels and giving me great distress. These conditions were undoubtedly due to the starchy food I ate, white bread, potatoes, etc., and didn't digest. I grew worse with time, till, 2 years ago, I had an attack which the doctor diagnosed as appendicitis. When the surgeon operated on me, however, it was found that my trouble was ulcer of the pancreas, instead of appendicitis."

"Since that time I have had several such attacks, suffering greatly. The last attack was about 3 months ago, and I suffered untold agonies."

"The doctor then said that I would have to eat less starchy stuff, so I began the use of Grape-Nuts food for I knew it to be predigestible, and have continued since with most gratifying results. It has built me up wonderfully. I gained 10 pounds in the first 8 weeks that I used Grape-Nuts; my general health is better than ever before, my brain is clearer and my nerves stronger."

"For breakfast and dinner, each, I take 4 teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts with cream, a small slice of dry toast, an egg soft boiled and a cup of Postum; and I make the evening meal of Grape-Nuts and cream alone—this gives me a good night's rest. I am well again."

MRS. MARTIN DIES;
NEAR CENTURY MARK

Grandmother of Mrs. Wm. C. Dahland of Milton Passed Away Yesterday Afternoon.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Milton, April 12.—Mrs. Martin, the subject of the following notice, died at the home of President Dahland of Milton college yesterday afternoon.

Brief funeral services will be held at the house and the remains will be taken to Philadelphia, Pa., for interment.

After that time she lived in Elizabeth, N. J., with her daughter, Mrs. Norton, until Mr. Norton's death a few years ago.

Two and one-half years ago Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Norton came to Milton where they have since lived with President and Mrs. Dahland.

SIDEWALK
SKETCHES.

HENRY CLAY

By Howard L. Rann.

ONE hundred and thirty-five years ago today Henry Clay was born in a very quiet locality called "The Shilohs," near Richmond, Virginia.

Clay's father was a Baptist clergyman who preferred to insure his life in the next world rather than this, and when he died his estate, consisted of a widow, seven children and a barrel of robust sermons.

Henry entered a drug store and learned how to fill out a liquor permit, and his time was so fully employed in this line of endeavor that he became an expert penman. He later entered a law office and entered the senate soon after he had put on long pants. Clay was a tall man with blue eyes and a mellow sideburn, and is chiefly remembered as the inventor of the Missouri compromise and the Whig party. He made several scoring starts for the presidency, but was generally caught in a pocket on the back stretch and landed in the cabinet. In 1811 he was elected speaker of the house and introduced a set of half-bearing rules of which Uncle Sam Cannon added an emergency brake. Clay was a very poor advertiser and objected to being shadowed by a camera hand, so he never got close enough to the presidency to figure on reshaping the White House. He was a man of peace and although he had several promising opportunities to bleed for his country and thus secure a few honorable prefections which would come in handy in a political campaign, he immersed himself in statecraft and watched Andy Jackson, Zachary Taylor and other bullet-ridden patriots walk off with the electoral votes. Henry Clay was a pure-minded statesman who was reviled in life, but who is now enshrined in numerous bronze statues and the memory of a grateful people. Known as "The Great Compromiser," he never compromised his friends or his conscience, and he would rather have been a president, although he has been followed by several candidates who satisfied everybody that they would rather be president than right.

WHY CHRIST AROSE FROM THE DEAD

What His Resurrection Proved and Guarantees.

Pastor Russell's Easter Sermon Delivered in Academy of Music Before a Congregation of 2,500—Shows Some Inconsistencies of Present Beliefs.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 7.—Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle preached in the Academy of Music today to nearly 2,500 hearers. His topic was, "Why Christ Arose from the Dead." His text was: "If Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith also vain; yea, and we are found false witnesses of God." . . . Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished." (1 Cor. xv, 14, 15, 18). He said: The faith once delivered to the saints by Jesus and the Apostles in respect to the resurrection of the dead has been very generally lost. Christian people profess a belief in the resurrection, because they find it stated in the Bible, yet they are continually in difficulty in their endeavor to make the Scriptural teaching on the subject square with some of the unsatisfactory theories received into the Church and incorporated into many of the creeds. St. Paul warned the Church against these human philosophies, and called them "science, falsely so-called," which make void the Word of God. These errors have been instrumental in dividing the faith of God's people into two different denominations, with two different professions. If God's people could all come back to the simplicity of the Bible's teaching, all of these differences would speedily disappear. God's Word would be seen to be beautiful and harmonious and satisfactory to the consecrated intellect.

The Bible Resurrection Reasonable.
Really the doctrine of the resurrection of the dead has been repudiated by all denominations, not willingly, not intentionally, but perforce, as it were. An opposite theory received and entrenched in the minds gives no place for the doctrine of the resurrection as the Bible presents it. Consequently we have twisted the doctrine of the resurrection and recite, "I believe in the resurrection of the body." Yet, even this perverted view of the resurrection is not satisfactory to those who hold it. They wish many a time that the doctrine of the resurrection was not in the Bible, so much difference does it cause. For instance, how inconsistent it seems that they should say, "I believe in the resurrection of the body," and then say, as many do, "Dying is but going home, getting rid of the mortal flesh, and being freed from its limitations. If it is a blessing to die and get free from the limitations of the body, how could it be a blessing to be reincarnated in the body, and be obliged to keep it through all eternity?"

There is nothing inconsistent in the Bible presentation of the resurrection. Not from the Bible, but from men, comes the suggestion of the resurrection of the body. The Bible invariably refers to the resurrection of the soul. It is the soul that dies; as we read, "The soul that sinneth it shall die." Adam was created a living soul, but his living soul came under the death sentence because he disobeyed God. It was his soul that was redeemed from death, not his body. "I will redeem thy life (look up the word life to see if it is from the Hebrew word meaning soul, and if so, add the word soul after the word life, in parentheses) from destruction."—Isaiah xlii, 4.

To accomplish this redemption we read that Christ Jesus "poured out His soul unto death." He made "His soul an offering for sin." Moreover, we are particularly told that it was the soul of Jesus that was raised from the dead: "I will not leave Thy soul in Sheol." St. Peter quotes this statement as prophetic of the resurrection of Jesus that His soul was not left in hades. With what body do they come? Is a totally different question. Some of the dead souls, in the resurrection, will come forth with spirit bodies, and others with human bodies, according to the Bible. But the important point is that it is the soul, the being, that comes forth. If the soul dies, as the Bible declares, then manifestly the soul should be resurrected.

Bible Made Void by Tradition.
The difficulty with us has been that we "have made void the Word of God" by our "traditions." We received from the Grecian philosophers a tradition which Socrates and Plato both advocated, namely, that when a human being dies he does not really die. The soul, it is claimed, cannot die, but whenever the soul gets out of the body, the body dies. How strange it seems that we all accepted this philosophy without a word of Scripture, and with hundreds of Scriptures to condemn it! It behooves us to take a decided stand either with the Grecian philosophers and their theories, or with the Bible. The two are in conflict and whoever attempts to hold both is in confusion. If the dead are not dead, then no human being is dead; and if no one is dead, how could there be a resurrection of the dead?

Uncle Pennywise Says.
Of course, every man can explain the resurrection, but the wise man doesn't try.

The Use of the Sabbath, Mark 1:23; 1:34.
Golden Text—The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. Mark 2:27.

(1.) Verses 23-24—What are the Old Testament laws for keeping the Sabbath day? Ex. xxiii:12; xxxi:14-17; Dent. v:14.

(2.) What is the origin of the Sabbath day, and what was its original purpose? Gen. 2:2-3; Dent. xxi:1.

(3.) Was it true or not, and why, that Jesus did break the letter of the Sabbath law?

(4.) Verses 25-26—Did Jesus have the right to change or modify the Sabbath law or any other law? Give your reason.

(5.) With the exception of natural law, are there ever cases when it is necessary to break the letter of the law in order to keep its spirit? Give your reason.

(6.) What are the facts concerning this reference to David? See Ex. xxiii:23; 1 Sam. xxi:3.

(7.) How do you reconcile the inference from the words of Jesus that David did right in eating the shew bread, notwithstanding it was an unlawful act? See Lev. xxiv:5-9.

(8.) If David and Jesus had the right to suspend Scriptural laws when the circumstances seemed to them to justify it, what are our rights under similar circumstances?

(9.) Verses 27-28—Jesus here states in substance that the Sabbath law must bend to man's real welfare. Why would he, or not, have said the same thing about every other law?

(10.) Does God give to every holy man the same right as Jesus had over the Sabbath law and presumably every other law? Why or why not?

(11.) Verses 1-2—What was the reason that the Pharisees hated Jesus and sought how they might destroy him?

(12.) Verses 3-4—How may we decide with certainty as to what we should or should not do on the Sabbath day? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(13.) Would you, for example, say that the engineer of the through express on the Sabbath day may please God at his work just as much as the minister in the pulpit? Why?

(14.) Why did they not answer Jesus' question?

(15.) A poor boy came to church on a cold Sunday with no button on his coat. A good sister took him into the vestry and sewed buttons on. Did she do right or not, and why?

(16.) Verses 5-6—When is it right to be angry?

(17.) Why did Jesus cure people miraculously in those days and not in these?

THE "LIZARD TAIL" FOR EVENING GOWN

The fashionable Parisian dressmakers are now taking their fashion inspirations from ash and reptiles. The new "lizard tail" evening gown, closely follows the "fish tail" gown. It takes its name from the trailing appendage, shaped like the tail of a lizard. It is of black satin, covered with a pretty shade of rose-colored moss-like, the tulle and waist band being of black satin, decorated with black pearls. The waist is transparent and bordered with a row of black curls. The belt is of black satin. The effect is finished by a circular black silk hair ornament of dragon of black pearls.

Grass Fire Near Jackson Street Bridge Yesterday Afternoon Threatened Structure—Midnight False Alarm.

The old fire engine housed at the Spring Brook fire station was put to use for an hour yesterday afternoon playing water on a grass fire which threatened to spread to the wooden bridge which spans the Rock river on Jackson street.

The fire department were roused out at midnight to respond to a false alarm sent in from box No. 55, situated on South Pearl street near the Galena street viaduct. The alarm is supposed to have been sent in by the same persons who played the trick on previous occasions as the department has been called to the same point four times within a year. CAPT. ROBERT F. SCOTT.

WORLD AWAITS CAPT. SCOTT'S SOUTH POLE SUCCESS.

Now that Capt. Roald Amundsen, the famous Norwegian explorer, has returned with his story of success in finding the South Pole, London particularly and the world at large are awaiting the first word from Capt. Robert F. Scott, the English explorer who must have been at the pole if successful, at about the same time the Norwegian was there. Whether he arrived before Amundsen is a question which will only be decided upon his return. If so, why did not Amundsen find the British flag awaiting him at the southern extremity of the earth, if both men should claim to have been at the pole and neither saw the other's flag the problem of determining the exact discoverer of the South Pole will be a most knotty one for scientists to determine.

At The Theatre

SHAKESPEARE IN THE LIBRARY AND ON THE STAGE

The extraordinary success of Sothern and Marlowe, to appear here at Myers Theater on Wednesday, April 17, in "Taming of the Shrew," is a stunning answer to a surprising statement lately made in a magazine of the day, to the following effect: "Shakespeare's plays were written for the theater and survive for the library."

It is curious to note that some people, usually those who know nothing of the stage, imagine that to understand the deeper meaning of the text, one must depend upon a partial of ridiculous foot-notes, instead of the finer art of the actor.

In order to discover to what a low level of absurdity these annotators have sunk, all that is necessary to do is to pick up almost any copy of Shakespeare. The reader will there discover such startling facts as that when Shakespeare said "silly," he meant "abundant," and that when he wrote "boundless," he meant "big."

The purpose seems to be to deprive the reader of thinking for himself, or making use of his own imagination. It is rather rough on Shakespeare to put him in the same class with the author of "Mother Goose." However, before entering upon an examination of some of the notes to Shakespeare, let us see what the annotators who consider that Shakespeare is for the library, have done for the old lady of the shoe. Take "Hey, Diddle, Diddle," for example:

"Hey diddle, diddle,
The cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon;
The little dog laughed
To see such sport,
And the dish ran away with the spoon."

Here are Clara Austin Winslow's annotations:

"The following questions are suggested for stimulating the pupil's imagination:
"What is the significance of the first line?" "Hey" was originally a snarl character.
"Do you understand that the cat had already begun to play the fiddle?" "How did the cow jump,—by the deliberate method?"
"What is a full moon."
"Was the dog's laughing an evidence of wit or humor, or might there have been a combination of the two elements?"

"Would it have been possible for the dog to see at such a distance?"

The reader may imagine that this example is an unfair one to cite, but if he thinks so, let him scan the country school master's examination of a youth as to a salt-box:

Prof.—What is a salt box?
Student—It is a box made to contain salt.
Prof.—How is it divided?
Student—Into a salt-box and a box of salt.
Prof.—Very well! Show the distinction.
Student—A salt box may be where there is no salt; but salt is absolutely necessary to the existence of a box of salt.
Prof.—Are not salt boxes otherwise divided?
Student—Yes, by a partition.
Prof.—What is the abstract idea of a salt-box?
Student—It is the idea of a salt-box abstracted from the idea of a box, or of salt, or the salt-box or the box of salt.
Prof.—What is the salt called with respect to the box?
Student—It is called its contents.
Prof.—Why so?
Student—Because the box is content to find plenty of salt in the box.
Prof.—You are very right—I see you have not misapprehend your time.
The reader will say that it is very absurd to state that any annotator ever applied any such extraordinary method to the text of Shakespeare. If he thinks in this way he will presently be disillusioned. Let us take a few lines from the text, and then discover the notes to them.

"O, sleep, O, gentle sleep,
Nature's soft nurse, how have I frighten'd thee,
That thou no more wilt weigh my eyelids down
And steep my senses in forgetfulness?"

Note the first line: "This line means that sleep is soft and caressing; but that the speaker has scared the timid creature and is suffering violently from that dreadful disease insomnia. He has been assigned to a noisy room in a hotel. And yet he is so lacking in discernment that he asks how the timid one has been so frightened."

Note to line two: "Would it not have been better for Shakespeare to have said 'Lovely nurse' instead of 'soft nurse'?" Certainly the Bard did not mean that this nurse was "mushy."

Note to line three: "It is evident that the speaker cannot keep his eyes closed, and going to sleep, forget, it, to a pretty figure, the idea of weighing the eyelids down as one does the eyes of a dead man, with copper cents. This custom evidently prevailed in Shakespeare's time."

Note to line four: "Honest Shakespeare made a frightful blunder in mixing his metaphors." In line three, he speaks of weighing the eyelids down, evidently with pennies, and here in the fourth line, he speaks of steeping the sleepless person's senses—that is, of holding the head over a pot of boiling water, i. e., soaking the head."

This is the sort of thing that emanates from those persons who consider that Shakespeare is for the study and not for the stage. But all one has to do to appreciate the complete absurdity of this notion, is first to read the notes commonly affixed to one of the plays, and then see the play acted.

There are whole passages in the dramas which are entirely lost on the reader unless he knows or sees the stage "business" which goes with them. Late in Washington, a well known literary man saw a performance of the Sothern and Marlowe company in "Twelfth Night."

That night he wrote Mr. Sothern as follows: "I read the play this afternoon and I hadn't then the slightest notion that there was such a wealth of fun and comeliness in the lines and situations. After all, it takes the actor to elucidate the text, either by inflection, facial expression or by what is called 'business.' It is surprising to discover what a difference there is between reading a play and seeing it well acted."

What is true of "Twelfth Night" applies to all of the plays. Shakespeare left much of the sense of many passages for the actor to illustrate and embellish. Consequently, in order to really know one of the plays in its fullest sense, it must be seen upon the stage, for, as it has been said, "The dramas were written for the theater."

If Shakespeare had intended them for the closet, he would have supplied his own notes and illustrations and thus saved the world from a perusal of ridiculous annotations.

* The individual who does not go to the theater to see Shakespeare's plays performed and knows them only in the library reminds one of that eminent countryman who did not visit the ruins of Pompeii for the reason that, as he expressed it, "they were out of repair."

CONGRESS MAY INVESTIGATE ALLEGED BASEBALL TRUST.

Washington, D. C.—A professional baseball operated as a trust? If so, ought Congress and the state department investigate it in the interest of the fans the same as the government is now investigating the various trusts in the interest of the consumer?

Representative Charles Gallagher, of Chicago, has introduced a resolution asking for such an inquiry. The resolution calls for a special committee of seven members.

Special political significance attaches to the resolution because of the fact that Charles P. Taft, brother of the President, is known as the principal owner of the Chicago National League team and a big factor in baseball. Dan Johnson and Garry Herrmann are, of course, owing to their positions, the two dominant factors in the baseball world and should in investigation be conducted, will be among the principal witnesses called.

Any light then falling upon the cell closes the circuit and sounds the alarm bell.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

THE TEUTONIC KNIGHTS.

By A. W. MACY.

One of the most ancient, powerful and widespread of the military religious orders was the one known as the Teutonic Knights. It was organized in 1191, by German residents of the Holy Land, who banded together in order to care for the sick and poor soldiers of their nationality who came there crusading. From this modest beginning it grew into one of the great military religious orders of the world, and it rendered excellent service all through the Crusades. At one time in the thirteenth century the pope tried to unite three great organizations of a similar nature, the Hospitallers, the Templars and the Teutonic Knights, into one great order, and also endeavored to induce the Christian nations to quit quarrelling with one another and combine their forces for the recovery of the Holy Land. Both efforts failed. During the Middle Ages the order of Teutonic Knights held immense possessions, but gradually lost its property, its prestige and its power. It maintained thereafter a feeble existence until the year 1808, when it was abolished by Napoleon.
